Technical Intern Training Act —Protection of Technical Intern Trainees—

One of the objectives of the Technical Intern Training Act is the protection of technical intern trainees. While the previous system provided for the protection of technical intern trainees, it was not necessarily adequate. Therefore, rigid provisions were established in the Technical Intern Training Act. A detailed overview is provided below, as it is a matter that pertains to all technical intern trainees.

Provisions concerning the protection of technical intern trainees can be broadly divided into two categories. One category is directed at supervising and implementing organizations that accept technical intern trainees. The other category is directed at technical intern trainees themselves.

1. Provisions directed at supervising and implementing organizations

The following regulations were established.

- (1) Prohibited to force technical intern trainees to engage in technical intern training against their will through the use of assault, intimidation, confinement, or other such means
- (2) Prohibited to stipulate penalties with regard to non-performance of a contract pertaining to technical intern trainees

Concluding a penalty contract with technical intern trainees could lead to acts of human rights violations that go against the will of technical intern trainees. This provision was established to protect technical intern trainees from such acts.

(3) Prohibited to retain the passports or residence cards of technical intern trainees

The above acts were been prohibited under the previous system, but the Technical Intern Training Act stipulates penal provisions for such acts of violation, and expressly states that they are grounds for punishment.

2. Provisions directed at technical intern trainees

(1) Reporting to the relevant minister

The Technical Intern Training Act provides that in cases in which an implementing organization or supervising organization, etc., is in violation of the provisions of this Act, such as those mentioned above in Paragraph 1, technical intern trainees may report such facts to the relevant minister. It also stipulates a penalty in cases in which the implementing organization or supervising organization, etc., treats a technical intern trainee detrimentally, such as by suspending the technical intern training because the technical intern trainee has given such a report to the
